About me

关于我

These photographs hold the memories of a journey that deepened my appreciation for the relationship between landscape, history, and culture. They also strengthened my desire to keep exploring. Wherever I travel next, I want to bring that same curiosity: to understand the places I encounter and share their beauty through my lens.

I am Huy Bui.

For my first journey to China, I chose Yunnan, traveling through Kunming, Dali, Shangri-La, and Lijiang. With my passion for photography, I wanted to capture the landscapes and cultural details that made each place memorable. I named this collection Yunnan Through My Eyes because every photograph reflects something that caught my attention and moved me. Through these images, I hope viewers can discover both the beauty of Yunnan and a part of the person behind the camera.

Photographing Yunnan encouraged me to slow down and observe. In Dali, the mountains beyond Erhai Lake drew my gaze toward a seemingly endless horizon. At Ganden 2 Sumtseling Monastery in Shangri-La, I wanted to preserve the stillness I felt within its sacred surroundings. Lijiang invited me to look closer, where worn stone and weathered walls revealed traces of time. Each place challenged me to find a frame that could convey its distinct character and the emotions it inspired.

Ganden Sumtseling Monastery

Often called the “Little Potala Palace,” Ganden Sumtseling Monastery is one of the most impressive Tibetan Buddhist monasteries in Yunnan. At this sacred site, I can sense the grandeur and spirituality embodied in its architecture.

The gleaming golden roofs stand out beautifully against the ivory-white walls, while the grand prayer halls and peaceful mountain surroundings create a solemn atmosphere. Beyond its majestic beauty, the monastery also fills me with admiration for the skill and devotion of the ancient builders who created such an extraordinary place.

Dukezong

When I walk through Dukezong Ancient Town, it feels like I step into another time. The old stone streets, traditional wooden houses, and colorful prayer flags create a warm and peaceful atmosphere. What impresses me most is the enormous golden prayer wheel overlooking the town.

More than its beautiful scenery, Dukezong leaves me with a sense of wonder because every street and building seems to carry a story from the past.

Standing beside it, I can feel how deeply Tibetan culture and spirituality are connected to this place.

虎跳峡 Hǔ tiào xiá The Tiger Leaping Gorge

11

Standing at Tiger Leaping Gorge, I am amazed by nature's power. The steep mountains rise dramatically on both sides, while the rushing river crashes through the narrow gorge below.

The sound of the water and the enormous cliffs make me feel incredibly small. What impresses me most is the contrast between the peaceful mountains and the unstoppable river. It is a wild and unforgettable place that makes the landscape feel alive.

Lijiang Ancient Town

Walking through Lijiang Ancient Town feels like entering a different world. Its stone streets, wooden houses, small bridges, and flowing canals create a peaceful and welcoming atmosphere.

Every corner seems to hold a different story. What impresses me most is how the town preserves its traditional beauty while still feeling lively and energetic.

Jade Dragon Mountain

From a distance, Jade Dragon Snow Mountain almost appears to float above Lìjiāng. Its snowy peaks rise through the clouds, sometimes hiding and then suddenly revealing themselves again. As I move closer, the air becomes colder, and the world seems quieter.

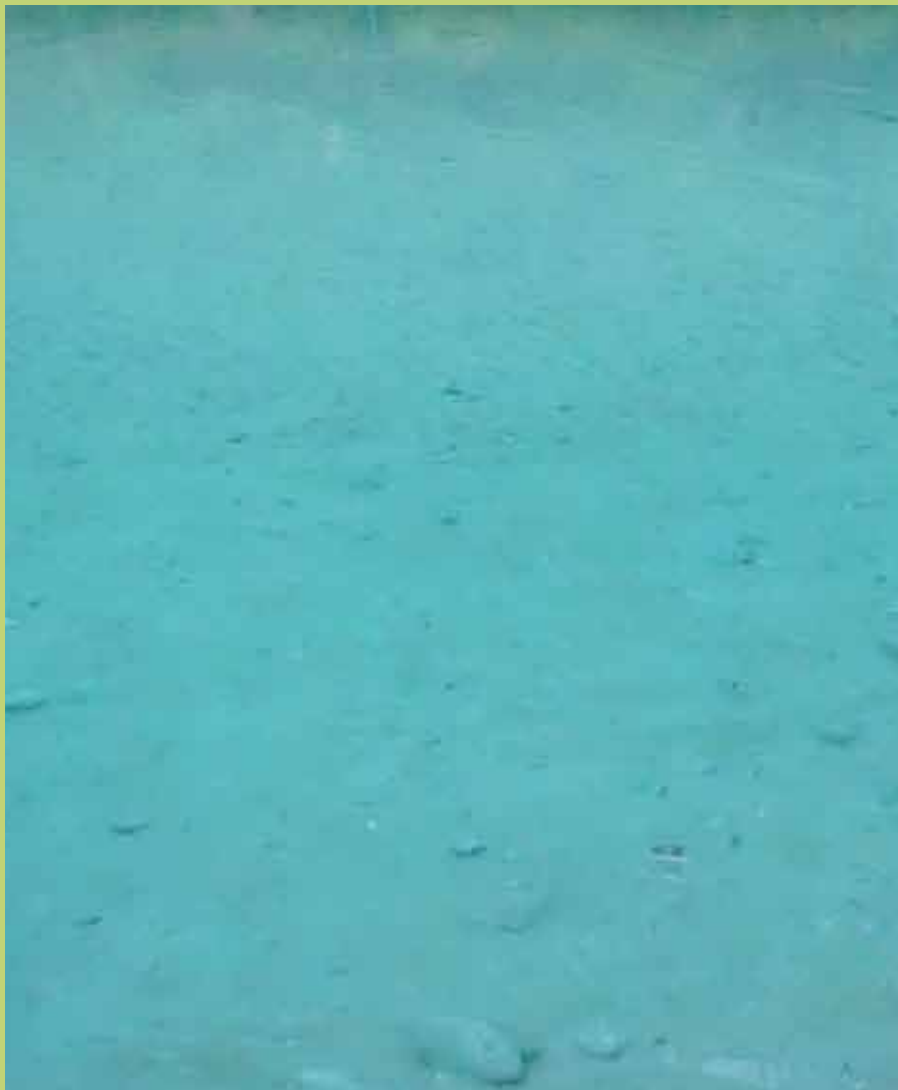

Surrounded by endless white snow and towering mountains, I feel as though I have entered another world. What fascinates me most is how the mountain can appear so powerful yet so peaceful, leaving me speechless before its immense beauty.

白水河 Báishuǐ Hé Blue Moon Valley

The brilliant blue water against the immense green forest creates a fascinating contrast, making Blue Moon Valley feel almost unreal.

With Jade Dragon Snow Mountain rising in the distance, the scenery looks like a painting brought to life. What impresses me most is how the water, forest, and mountains blend into one breathtaking view.

Erhai Lake

Erhai Lake fascinates me with its endless blue water stretching toward the distant Cangshan Mountains. Under the sunlight, the surface sparkles like glass, while the gentle wind creates a calm and refreshing atmosphere.

The harmony between the lake, sky, and mountains makes the entire landscape feel peaceful yet unforgettable. Moreover, this landscape is one of my favorite one because it appears in my favorite TV series.
